PageFX is a system tray tool that keeps you up-to-date with your Hotmail, Gmail, and other IM accounts. I have recently become a victim of internet fraud. My best friend has been trying to convince me to donate, give away or sell my accumulated eBooks to him. It's been done this way. He has taken control of my credit card numbers and every time I spend money online I am charged for it. He hasn't been using my card long, since he gets a new card every time he's been using it. The last time he was using it he used it to buy a card reader for his Ipod. He has had a number of credit cards since I've known him, so he has a plethora of these cards that he uses. Well, he wants me to sell him my eBooks, so he can use those cards to buy all of my eBooks. The only problem is that I do not have any eBooks worth selling! I have gotten every book I own free from other websites, which I really did not want to do, but his scheme to get all of my eBooks for free has been very convincing. Ok so your new friend has been using your credit card without your permission to make some purchases with it and buy some stuff with your credit card so he can steal your eBooks and get the credit card numbers to get more. Yes, he's 2edc1e01e8
